

Contents

|                                                       |     |
|-------------------------------------------------------|-----|
| Acknowledgements                               | IX  |
| List of Illustrations                          | XI  |
| Glossary                                       | XII |
| Map of Muslim and Jewish Places in West Berlin | XVI |

|                                                 |    |
|-------------------------------------------------|----|
| Introduction                             | 1  |
| 1 Contents of the Book                          | 4  |
| 2 Approaches                                    | 5  |
| 3 Muslims and Jews, or Migrants and Minorities? | 6  |
| 4 Global Imaginings                             | 11 |
| 5 The Sources                                   | 15 |

PART 1

The Setting

|                                                        |    |
|--------------------------------------------------------|----|
| 1 Crossroads                                    | 23 |
| 1 Migrants and Minorities in the European Metropolises | 27 |
| 2 German Imperial Politics                             | 32 |
| 3 Contact Zones in Berlin                              | 35 |
| 4 A Muslim Ecumene in the West                         | 39 |
| 5 Echoes in Berlin Society                             | 44 |
| 6 On Being Neighbours                                  | 47 |
| 2 The Spaces in Between                         | 52 |
| 1 A Survey of Indian Missions in Weimar Berlin         | 53 |
| 2 Experimenting with Indian Secularism                 | 57 |
| 3 Glimpses from Private Archives                       | 60 |
| 4 The Visual Archive                                   | 62 |
| 5 Lucie Hecht's Memories of the Indian Bureau          | 71 |
| 6 Shared Goals                                         | 75 |

PART 2

Case Studies

|                                                                 |    |
|-----------------------------------------------------------------|----|
| 3 The Hiking Club: S.M. Abdullah and the Oettinger Women | 81 |
| 1 Islam in Berlin during the Weimar Republic                    | 84 |
| 2 The Founding of the German–Muslim Society                     | 89 |

|          |                                                                       |            |            |
|----------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------|------------|------------|
| 3        | New Men and New Women                                                 | 95         |            |
| 4        | After Hitler's Seizure of Power                                       | 102        |            |
| 4 | An Artist's View: Lisa Oettinger between 'Civilizations'       | 108 |            |
| 1        | 1937: Establishing a Muslim Household with Jewish Heirlooms           |            | 111        |
| 2        | 1957: Looking Back                                                    | 116        |            |
| 3        | Links with the Jewish Past                                            | 119        |            |
| 4        | Links with the Mughal Past                                            | 122        |            |
| 5        | How Memory Creates a Family                                           | 126        |            |
| 5 | The Sting of Desire: Hugo Marcus's Theology of Male Friendship |            | 129 |
| 1        | Coming of Age around 1900                                             | 132        |            |
| 2        | The Novelist                                                          | 139        |            |
| 3        | The Muslim Theorist                                                   | 144        |            |
| 4        | Looking for a Friend                                                  | 149        |            |
| 6 | The Rebels: Luba Derczanska and Her Friends                    |            | 152 |
| 1        | A Jewish Girl from Vilna                                              | 153        |            |
| 2        | Russian Berlin                                                        | 156        |            |
| 3        | The Jewish Network                                                    | 160        |            |
| 4        | Micro Strategies of Globalization                                     | 169        |            |
| 5        | The Journey Home                                                      | 174        |            |
| 7 | An Indian Muslim in Jewish Berlin: Khwaja Abdul Hamied         |            | 180 |
| 1        | In the Footsteps of Muslim Modernists                                 | 182        |            |
| 2        | Among Indian Revolutionaries in Berlin                                | 187        |            |
| 3        | Gateways to German Society                                            | 193        |            |
| 4        | The Journey Home                                                      | 196        |            |
| 5        | Forging the Connection                                                | 200        |            |
| 6        | Solidarity on the Margins                                             | 202        |            |
|          | Summary and Conclusion                                         | 207 |            |
|          | Archival Materials, Websites, Copyrights of Images             |            | 217 |
|          | References                                                     | 220 |            |
|          | Index of Names                                                 | 239 |            |
|          | General Index                                                  | 244 |            |