

Contents

Abbreviations — XIII

Introduction — 1

- 1 Solipsism and the limits of sense in the Tractatus Logico-Philosophicus — 18
  - 1.1 Introduction — 18
  - 1.2 The limits of sense: a first pass — 20
  - 1.3 The limits of (my) language and the limits of (my) world: the solipsistic move — 27
  - 1.4 The “truth in solipsism”: a first pass — 33
  - 1.5 “I am my world”: solipsism coincides with “pure realism” — 37
  - 1.6 Throwing the ladder away: a first attempt — 40
  - 1.7 Back to the ladder: problematizing the solipsistic move — 42
  - 1.8 Throwing the “picture theory of meaning” away — 44
  - 1.9 The “truth in solipsism”: a second pass — 50
  - 1.10 Throwing the ladder away: a second attempt — 54
  - 1.11 Concluding methodological remarks: distinguishing cure and prevention — 58
- 2 Solipsism and method in the Philosophical Remarks — 61
  - 2.1 Introduction — 61
  - 2.2 “The world as idea”: solipsism and the limits of experience — 72
  - 2.3 Time, memory, and sublimation — 81
  - 2.4 Solipsism of the present moment — 90
- 3 Solipsism, privacy, and the grammar of the first person in The Blue Book — 94
  - 3.1 Introduction — 94
  - 3.2 “I can’t feel his pain”: a first route to solipsism — 96
  - 3.3 When language goes on holiday: some further routes to solipsism — 104
  - 3.4 “‘I’ does not refer”: the peculiar grammar of the first person pronoun — 107
  - 3.5 Teaching differences — 117

4      The threat of privacy in the Philosophical Investigations: Cavell and Kripke on skepticism about meaning — 119

- 4.1      Introduction — 119
- 4.2      Kripke's Wittgenstein on rules and private language — 122
- 4.3      Kripke's Wittgenstein vs. Cavell's Wittgenstein on rules and private language — 126
- 4.4      Kripke's Wittgenstein vs. Cavell's Wittgenstein on inheriting language: two readings of the "scene of instruction" — 134
- 4.5      Skepticism and our aspiration for the sublime — 137
- 4.6      Meaning and its risks — 140

5      Seeing souls: Wittgenstein and Cavell on skepticism about other minds — 143

- 5.1      Introduction — 143
- 5.2      The problem of other minds in PI I — 145
- 5.3      Outward criteria, and their limits — 148
- 5.4      Aspect perception and the problem of other minds — 152
- 5.5      Soul-blindness (or: "living our skepticism") — 157

6      Taking skepticism seriously: Stroud and Cavell — 163

- 6.1      Introduction — 163
- 6.2      Cavell and Stroud on skepticism and meaning — 166
- 6.3      Cavell and Stroud on the truth in skepticism — 178
- 6.4      Coda — 185

7      Skepticism, perfectionism, and the limits of morality — 187

- 7.1      Introduction — 187
- 7.2      What is the point of a moral argument? — 188
- 7.3      Perfectionism and the limits of morality — 195
- 7.4      Final remarks — 200

References — 202

Index of subjects — 208

Index of names — 210