

CONTENTS

Acknowledgements	vii
Introduction: Postmemory, Unsayability and the Return of the Auschwitz Code Roni Lentin	1
1. Categorical Murder, or: How to Remember the Holocaust Zygmunt Bauman	25
2. 'The word passed away, as that world awakened': On the (Im)possibility of Representation Heidrun Friese	41
3. Memory, Forgetting and Mourning Work: Deviant Narratives of Silence in the Gendered Relations between Israeli Zionism and the Shoah Roni Lentin	59
4. Entering the World of a Holocaust Victim: Schoolchildren Discuss a Ghetto Memoir - a Case Study Janina Bauman	77
5. A Dual Perspective: Yaakov Shabtai and the Historian's Account of the Deportation to Mauritius Dalia Ofer	87
6. Memory, Authenticity and Replication of the Shoah in Museums: Defensive Tools of the Nation Andrea Tyndall	111
7. Forbidden Laughter? The Politics and Ethics of the Holocaust Film Comedy Yosefa Loshitzky	127

8.	Voice, Silence and Memory: The Escape from Auschwitz and the Israeli Historiography Ruth Linn	139
9.	The Shoah and Marxism: Behind and Beyond Silence Philip Spencer	155
10.	Re-presenting the Shoah in Poland and Poland in the Shoah Annamaria Orla-Bukowska	179
11.	Denying the Holocaust where it Happened: Post-Communist East Central Europe and the Shoah Michael Shafir	195
12.	Evoking and Revoking Auschwitz: Kosovo, Remembrance and German National Identity Christine Achinger	227
13.	Exile, Daughterhood and Writing: Representing the Shoah as a Personal Memory Esther Fuchs	253
	Notes on Contributors	269
	Index	273