

CONTENTS

---

FOREWORD TO STUDIES IN PREJUDICE	v
INTRODUCTION by Carl Binger	xi
PREFACE	xiii
I. THE SETTING FOR THE STUDY OF ANTI-SEMITISM	1
A. Cultural Climate and Social Research	1
B. Value Judgments and Potential Bias	2
C. Some Underlying Concepts	3
1. Prejudice
2. Normalcy
3. National Character
II. DATA COLLECTION AND METHODOLOGICAL CONSIDERATIONS	9
A. Methodological Approach and Purpose of the Study	9
B. Data Collection	11
C. Specific Methodological Considerations	17
1. The Selective Character of the Material
2. The Development of Conceptual Tools
III. THE PSYCHODYNAMICS OF ANTI-SEMITISM	25
A. The Clinical Picture	25
1. Diagnosis and Symptoms
2. Emotional Predispositions to Anti-Semitism
a. Anxiety
b. Confusion of the Concept of Self
c. Interpersonal Relations
d. Conformity and the Fear of the Different
e. Reality Adaptation
f. Conscience Development and Repression
B. The Genetic Aspect	43
1. Relationship Between the Parents of the Anti-Semite

2. The Relationship of the Parents to the Anti-Semitic Patients as Children
3. The Oedipal Struggle
C. Anti-Semitism in the Service of Defense Mechanisms	55
1. Projection
a. The "Selective" Anti-Semite
b. The "Unselective" Anti-Semite
2. Denial
3. Social Aggression Substituted for Anxiety
4. Displacement
5. Reaction Formation and Compensation
6. Introjection
D. Group Pressures and Intrapsychic Needs	73
1. The Social Determination of the Stereotype
2. The Social Determination of Anti-Semitic Manifestations
3. Jewish Anti-Semitism
4. The "Liberal" Anti-Semite
5. Contact with Jews
6. Anti-Semitism in the Family
IV. ANTI-SEMITISM IN CONTEXT	86
V. APPENDIX: SUMMARY INFORMATION ON ALL CASES	95
VI. BIBLIOGRAPHY	131
INDEX	133