

Table of Contents

Preface.....	VII
Abbreviations	XV
Chapter 1: Introduction	1
Jewish-Christian relations in antiquity	3
Jewish Christianity	24
Judaism in the second century.....	33
Conclusion	36
Bibliography.....	37
Section 1
Jewish-Christian Relations
Chapter 2: Anti-Judaism and early Christian identity	43
Introduction	43
Miriam Taylor's book	45
A critique	51
Some concluding observations.....	72
Bibliography.....	73
Chapter 3: Barnabas 9.4 a peculiar verse on circumcision.....	77
Bibliography.....	88
Chapter 4: Clement of Alexandria and the Jews.....	91
Introduction	91
Clement's references to the Jews	92
Three theses concerning Clement and the Jews.....	97
Bibliography.....	101

Chapter 5: Messianism and resistance amongst Jews and Christians in Egypt	103
Introduction	103
Messianism amongst Jews in Egypt	104
Christian messianism in Egypt.....	113
Conclusions	118
Bibliography.....	120
Chapter 6: Jews and Christians in ancient Alexandria – from the Ptolemies to Caracalla.....	123
The problem of sources.....	123
Jews in Alexandria – from ‘our city’ to an alien place.....	126
Christians in Alexandria	137
Conclusions: the Jewish and Christian image of Alexandria.....	143
Bibliography.....	144
Chapter 7: Jewish proselytism at the time of Christian origins: chimera or reality?.....	149
Introduction	149
Opposition to the idea of Jewish proselytism	151
Population.....	153
Jewish literature in Greek.....	153
Miscellaneous pieces of Jewish evidence	154
Pagan evidence	155
Christian evidence	156
More general evidence.....	156
Critique of positions opposed to the idea of Jewish proselytism.....	157
Population increase	163
Arguments from the abundance of Jewish literature in Greek	164
The expulsion of the Jews in 139 B.C.E.	167
The expulsion of the Jews in 19 C.E.	168
Rome: An exception?	170
Conclusion.....	179
Bibliography.....	181
Chapter 8: Some observations on Josephus and Christianity	185
Introduction	185
A.J. 20.200	192
The Testimonium Flavianum (A.J. 18.63-4)	199
External references	200

The text	209
Style	217
The context	223
Content.....	226
Conclusion	246
Postscript.....	249
Bibliography.....	261
 Chapter 9: The Four among the Jews	267
The difficulties of the task	267
The genre, audience and language of the Gospels	268
Evidence for knowledge of the Gospels amongst Jews.....	270
Direct Jewish references to the Gospels.....	270
b. Šabb. 116a-b	270
The gilyonim and the books of the heretics	272
Joseph and the Hebrew gospels of Tiberias.....	273
Indirect evidence	274
Josephus.....	274
Justin Martyr.....	275
Celsus' Jew.....	275
Rabbinic texts.....	277
Early evidence for the existence of a Jewish anti-gospel	279
The Contra Celsum	280
Tertullian, De Spectaculis 30.5-6	280
Lactantius, Divine Institutes 5.3.4	281
The Martyrdom of Conon	282
Some concluding observations.....	282
Bibliography.....	284

Section 2

Jewish Christianity

 Chapter 10: The definition of the term ‘Jewish Christian’/
‘Jewish Christianity’ in the history of research	289
Introduction.....	289
The origins and definition of the term before F. C. Baur	290
Some definitions of the term from F. C. Baur to the Second
World War.....	297
More recent study	308

Concluding observations.....	316
Bibliography.....	320
Chapter 11: The Ebionites in recent research	325
Introduction	325
Sources	327
Conclusion:	342
The name	344
Beliefs	349
Christology	349
Conclusion	357
Obedience to the law and biblical interpretation.....	357
Attitudes to Paul.....	360
Origins, history and fate	361
From the beginnings to Bar Kokhba	361
Beyond Bar Kokhba.....	370
Conclusion.....	375
Bibliography.....	376
Section 3
Judaism in the Second Century
Chapter 12: The enigma of the second century	383
Some typologies	383
A dearth of sources	386
Some subjects for discussion	391
The shadow of the revolts	391
Jewish identity	400
Hebrew, Bible versions and LXX	409
Rabbinic influence.....	413
Christianity	415
A text from the second century?	417
Conclusion.....	419
Bibliography	421
Chapter 13: Pseudo-Clementine Homilies 4-6: rare evidence of a Jewish literary source from the second century C.E. ?	427
Introduction	427
The content of Hom. 4-6	428

Hom. 4-6 and the Pseudo-Clementines	430
The problem of Eusebius Hist. eccl. 3.38.5	437
Arguments against the Jewish origin of the source.....	441
Rec. 10.17-52	449
The extent of the original Jewish source	451
Intermediate summary	459
Some emphases of the source	461
Cultural origins.....	466
Hom. 4-6 as a Jewish source	470
Date.....	477
Provenance	480
Purpose.....	482
Some concluding thoughts and questions.....	486
The Jewish source.....	486
The Homilist and his world	487
Bibliography.....	488
 Index of Ancient and Christian Sources	493
Index of Authors	523
Index of Subjects	529