

CONTENTS

|         |     |
|---------|-----|
| Preface | vii |
|---------|-----|

I. DIRECT COMMUNAL CARE OF THE SICK

|   |    |
|---|----|
| Introduction  | 3  |
| Direct Communal Responsibility for the Care of the Sick | 6  |
| The Communal Physician                                  | 19 |
| The Communal Surgeon                                    | 45 |
| Communal Midwives                                       | 48 |
| Other Communal Medical Personnel                        | 51 |

II. THE ORIGIN OF THE HEBRA KADDISHA

|  |    |
|--|----|
| Origin of the Term Hebra Kaddisha   | 55 |
| Was the Hebra Kaddisha an Ancient Palestinian Institution                   | 55 |
| Were There Sick-Care Societies in Ancient Palestine                                | 59 |
| The First Sick-Care Society Appears in Spain                                       | 61 |
| The Rise of the Hebra Kaddisha in the German Lands in the Sixteenth Century | 63 |
| Why Did the Hebra Kaddisha Assume the Form of the Christian Religious Guild | 70 |
| The Similarity of the Hebra Kaddisha to the Christian Religious Guild       | 74 |
| Differences between Jewish and Christian Religious Guilds                          | 80 |

|   |    |
|---|----|
| Motivations for the Creation of the Holy Brotherhoods |    |
| The Social Motivation                                 | 89 |
| The Religious Motivation                              | 90 |

III. THE STRUCTURE OF THE HEBRA KADDISHA

|   |     |
|---|-----|
| The Basic Constitutional Structure of the Brotherhood | 95  |
| Terms of Admission into the Society                   | 96  |
| Different Categories of Membership                    | 98  |
| Societal Discipline                                   | 101 |
| Sources of Income                                     | 102 |
| Size of Societies, Officers, Elections                | 105 |
| The Society Banquet                                   | 109 |

IV. THE ALL-INCLUSIVE PROGRAM OF THE HEBRA KADDISHA

|   |     |
|---|-----|
| The Hebra Kaddisha as an Agency for Philanthropy,Prayer, and Study | 116 |
|---|-----|

V. THE CARE OF THE SICK BY THE HEBRA KADDISHA

|  |     |
|--|-----|
| What the Brotherhood Did for the Sick                | 120 |
| The Brotherhood Care of Non-Resident Pay Patients    | 123 |
| The Task of the Executive Officer of the Brotherhood | 125 |
| The Brotherhood Beadle and His Work                  | 127 |
| Brotherhood Visiting of the Sick                     | 127 |

VI. WOMEN'S SICK-CARE SOCIETIES

|  |     |
|--|-----|
| The Position of Women in the Hebra Kaddisha | 135 |
| The Rise of Female Auxiliary Burial Societies      | 135 |
| The Rise of Female Sick-Care Societies             | 138 |

VII. AN EIGHTEENTH CENTURY JEWISH YOUTH MOVEMENT IN EUROPE?

|   |     |
|---|-----|
| The Rise of Jewish Youth Societies                        | 146 |
| The Economic Provisions of the Youth Mutual Aid Societies | 148 |
| The Motivations that Produced These Youth Societies       | 151 |
| The Lifesavers of Pressburg                               | 155 |
| The Young Fellows of Dresden                              | 156 |

VIII. THE JEWISH HOSPITAL

|  |     |
|--|-----|
| The Origin of the Term Hekdesb  | 160 |
| The Antiquity of the Jewish Hospital   | 161 |
| The Origin of the Hospital as an Institution among the Jews of Germany                   | 165 |
| A Comparison between the Medieval Jewish and Christian Hospitals                         | 165 |
| Why Were Jewish Hospitals Established  | 172 |
| Who Established, Controlled, and Supported the Jewish Hospital                           | 173 |
| The Administration of the Jewish Hospital  | 175 |
| The Location of the Hekdesb   | 176 |
| The Number of Jewish Hospitals in Each City  | 178 |
| Description of the Typical Hekdesb  | 178 |
| Care of Servants in the Hospitals  | 182 |
| The Care of the Sick in a Berlin Jewish Hospital, 1750                                   | 185 |
| The Care of the Sick in the Fürth Jewish Hospital, 1722-1786. The Care of Lying-In Women | 186 |
| How Clean Was the Hekdesb   | 193 |
| The Beginnings of Hospitalization for Middle-Class Local Jews                            | 195 |

IX. THE BEGINNINGS OF THE MODERN JEWISH HOSPITAL

|  |     |
|--|-----|
| Conditions in the European Hospital in the Late Eighteenth Century | 198 |
| The New Vienna Jewish Hospital                                     | 199 |
| The New Breslau Jewish Hospital                                    | 204 |
| The Attempts to Improve the Amsterdam Hospital                     | 205 |
| The Beginnings of Modern Jewish Hospitalization                    | 207 |

APPENDIXES

|   |     |
|---|-----|
| I. Folk-Medicine and Spiritual Medicine   | 211 |
| II. Amsterdam Broadside, April 2, 1800 (Judaéo-German)  | 232 |
| III. Amsterdam Broadside, January 3, 1801 (Judaéo-German)   | 235 |
| IV. Amsterdam Broadside, January 30, 1802 (Judaéo-German)   | 238 |
| V. Germanic-Jewish Communities and Brotherhoods Employing Physicians  | 240 |
| VI. Contract of Dr. Abraham Kisch with the Holy Brotherhood for the Care of the Sick, Breslau, 1767 (Translation) | 242 |
| VII. Salaries and Fees of German-Jewish Communal Physicians   | 245 |
| VIII. The Origin of the Term Hebra Kaddisha and the Names of Sick-Care Societies                           | 248 |
| IX. The Earliest Ashkenazic Brotherhoods and a Chronological List of German-Jewish Holy Brotherhoods              | 253 |
| X. Fast and Festal Days of the Brotherhoods   | 257 |

|  |      |
|--|------|
| CONTENTS   | xiii |
| XI. Similarities in Administration and Structure in the Hebra Kaddisha and in the Christian Guilds and Brotherhoods | 259  |
| XII. The Spiritual Care of the Very Sick and the Dying by the Holy Brotherhood   | 261  |
| XIII. The Care of the Insane   | 272  |
| XIV. The Origin of the Word Hekdesh as a Term for the Jewish Hospital   | 274  |
| XV. Rudolf Virchow and the Origin of the Jewish Hospital   | 276  |
| XVI. A List of Jewish Hospitals in the German Lands  | 279  |
| XVII. Rule for the Care of the Sick, Fürth, 1786 (Judaean-German)  | 281  |
| XVIII. The Modernization of the Hekdesh in the Nineteenth Century   | 287  |
| BIBLIOGRAPHY   | 289  |
| ABBREVIATIONS  | 315  |
| INDEX  | 319  |