

"Classic Yiddish Stories is a gem. A companion to Ken Frieden's excellent study, Classic Yiddish Fiction, it is an independent collection of masterful short stories and novellas."

—Benjamin Harshav, Yale University

"Ken Frieden has the ear of a poet and busts open the door to a whole new range of Yiddish literature in this collection. Terrific book—should be required reading."

—Mary Karr, author of The Liars' Club and Lit: A Memoir

"No doubt, if one had only one text to introduce readers and students to the Jewish world of prewar Eastern Europe, Frieden's Classic Yiddish Stories is the one."

—Michael Taub, Symposium

"This is a book for every collection—university, synagogue, yeshiva, and public library—and is highly recommended for your personal library."

—Rochelle S. Elstein, AJL Newsletter

"Showcases to superb effect the short fiction of Yiddish writing's three early masters. Frieden has done an excellent editing job, and the translators deserve applause for their meticulous work. Highly recommended for Jewish studies collections."

—Gene Shaw (NYPL), Library Journal

"Frieden enriches us again with this volume. . . . Abramovitsh's Fishke the Lane, Sholem Aleichem's Tevye tales, and Peretz's Hasidic stories have never been so well rendered into English as they are here."

—Harold Bloom, Yale University

Photograph by Marc Suffran

KEN FRIEDEN, the B. G. Rudolph Professor of Judaic Studies at Syracuse University since 1993, has published numerous books and essays on Yiddish and Hebrew literature.

Front (from left): S. Y. Abramovitsh, Sholem Aleichem (Rabinovitsh), and I. L. Peretz. By permission of the YIVO Institute for Jewish Research.